

Call for Papers

Civil Engineering is the official journal of the ICE (Institution of Civil Engineers). Published continuously since 1836, ICE Publishing's journals deliver refereed papers and articles of the broadest relevance, interest and impact, offering a comprehensive insight into the work of the international civil engineering profession and its vital contribution to society.

Why write for ICE Publishing

- Improve your CV and raise your professional profile worldwide
- Each year, ICE Publishing acknowledges the best work published in our journals at the ICE Publishing Awards ceremony
- Each issue goes to 92,000 ICE members and engineering libraries in 160 countries
- Rigorous peer review by international experts, editorial support and guidance alongside professional copy-editing, typesetting and proof-reading
- Member of COPE – Committee on Publication Ethics and CrossCheck.

Get started

Think about something you or your colleagues have done recently that was particularly interesting, challenging or innovative. Start gathering data, images and references and then try writing an abstract:

When you are happy with it, show it to colleagues – who may wish to write the paper with you – or email it to the editor. Then you can start to write your paper.

Find out more

Information for authors <https://www.icevirtuallibrary.com/page/authors>

Contact the journal manager Ben Ramster ben.ramster@ice.org.uk

